Regarding claim 1, prior art fails to disclose or fairly suggest in combination with the remaining limitations, antenna system for a ground penetrating radar, comprising two plate-shaped antenna devices which are connected with each other by adjacent edge-structures and which during operation are orientated to have a downwards slope from said edge structures, wherein the two antenna devices respectively comprise at least two orthogonally mounted transmitter antenna elements and at least two orthogonally mounted receiver antenna elements, in which the antenna elements in each antenna device consist of monopoles formed by metal surfaces being applied to an electrically insulating plate carrier that is located on the bottom side of a layer of radar absorbing material, in which the upper surface of the absorbing material is covered by a metallic ground plane.

Claims 2-10 are allowed since they are dependent on claim 1.
